What should I do? A: I'd suggest you to connect to the site with Internet Explorer and try to download the file manually. If you do download it, please show the file and share the download link with us. I suggest you to try installing the software using Internet Explorer instead of Windows Explorer. If that doesn't work, try again with a different browser to make sure the connection is stable.

Q: How to give a IUPAC name to the least volatile product of two terpenes? I am interested to give the IUPAC name to the least volatile product of two terpenes (9-isopropylazulene and (-) limonene (IUPAC names)). I want to know in which International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry official publication I can find the rules I should follow. The commercial name of the compound I am interested in (99.6% of the least volatile product of (-) limonene and 9-isopropylazulene (9:1) is: 1,2,3,4,6-pentamethyl-1,2,3,4,5-pentamethylcyclopentane; 9-isopropylazulene

A: All IUPAC articles are available free at ChemSpider or you may purchase them from Wiley's website. The rules are very clear: Section 2 deals with the nomenclature of compounds. Section 3 deals with the nomenclature of chemical reaction. In this particular case, the rules are: Article 105.4, paragraph A: Rule 8: Compounds A compound is to be named using the IUPAC names, except in the following instances: (1) Those in which the composition of the compound is altered by reactions involving the reagent(s) with which the compound is treated during the isolation or purification procedure; (2) Those in which one of the components is an organic reagent or a derivative of an organic compound of biological origin. In these cases the reagent or derivative must be named; (3) Those in which the composition of the compound is altered by reactions involving the reagent(s) that comprise the reagent mixture from which the compound is synthesised; (4) Those in which the compound is obtained by a synthesis that uses techniques for obtaining
